GALES FERRY

Postmaster D. B. Dovey was registrar for this section of the town of Gales Ferry last Thursday and 25 men from this vicinity registered at the village postoffice with him. The local auxiliary of the Red Cross met at the home of the chairman Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham, at its last meeting, when work was continued on refugee garments.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Lawson received word last week from their son Carl B. Lawson, who was graduated some weeks ago from the naval radio school at Harvard university. He has been assigned to the U. S. tanker Trinidadian as radio electrician and has returned safely to this side from a trip across, made in company with a large convoy of ships, conveying troops and supplies for the American expeditionary forces.

Mrs. E. Irving Hurlbutt entertained her Sunday school class of the primary department Friday afternoon from 3.30 to 5 o'clock. Sixteen little ones were present. Games were played. Miss Gladys Harrison of Providence, who is a guest at the home of Mrs. Hurlbutt, assisted in entertaining the children.

The choicest beds of asters in the village are those at the grounds of Mrs. H. F. Crandall and her sister, Mrs. Harlan A. Pierce. They number many hundred blooms of many colors and varieties. The chancel flowers at the M. E. church for several Sundays have been baskets of asters arranged by Mrs. Pierce. She has also used them generously for placing on the graves of friends in the nearby cemetery, and given to her neighbors and friends in the village.

Mrs. Justin Peckham and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Harold Peckham, with little daughter Nancy and Mrs. Tarrant, all of the Long Cove section, formed an automobile party that attended the Seventh Day Adventist camp meeting at Forestville and spent last week. Justin Peckham and son, Harold Peckham, motored to the camp ground for the week end. The entire party returned home Monday.

Mrs. Donald Irwin with her little daughter Barbara of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., and her sister, Mrs. Bonestell, with her infant, of California, who have been at the summer home here of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Apin, of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., left Friday for New York. Mrs. Bonestell's young son go to her home in California. Mr. and Mrs. Apin, after spending the week end here, followed them to the Mt. Vernon home but will return here for a short time later on before closing the house for the season.

A. C. Risdon of New York and his son, Charles Risdon, ensign U. S. N. R., also of New York with Andrew Hotchkiss, who has recently received his commission as ensign in the U. S. N. R. force, spent the week end at the Risdon summer home in the village.

Miss Jennie G. Perkins is at her home here enjoying a week's vacation from her duties at the Thames National bank, Norwich.

Rev. O. E. Newton spoke in the M. E. church Sunday morning from Proverbs 13: 23, "Much food is in the tongue of the fool." At the Sunday school session the superintendent, C. E. Colver, was present after an absence of two months.

The following delegates were elected Sunday to attend the Narragansett Baptist association at East Greenwich Sept. 18th and 20th, representing the First Baptist church of Hopkinton: Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo P. Kenyon and Frank W. Mills.

The Hopkinton board of assessors met Monday at the town hall to examine the lists prepared by the clerk.

Too many business women are interested only in the business of their neighbors.

WESTERLY

There was a large attendance at the town hall Tuesday evening when the republicans of the First and Second districts assembled to select the town committee and convention delegates. There was advance notice that attempt would be made to effect changes in the present makeup of the town committee, in addition to the substitution of a name for that of Dr. John M. O'Connor, who is in the military service. The committee that served the past year was composed as follows:

First District—Dr. John M. O'Connor, Martin H. Spellman, D. Harold Rogers, Howard Swan, J. Burnside Babcock, Joseph Gervasi and Dr. Alexander Ferguson.

Second District—William Clark, Arthur L. Perry, Lewis Stanton, Clarence A. Vars, William H. Ledward and William I. Dolan.

In the First district the contest was between William C. Mudge and C. Harold Rogers. Mudge got 54 votes and Rogers 53. In the Second district Eliasha Eurus received 77 votes to 54 for Edward Sawyer.

Rev. Gibson C. Mosher, who recently resigned the pastorate of the Methodist Episcopal church of East Greenwich, to become an overseas chaplain, will be succeeded by Rev. J. W. Simmonds of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., who holds a commission as captain in the British military forces. He has been a missionary for seven years and is during that time had charge of the schools in his territory. He will conduct the gymnasium work and military drills at East Greenwich academy. Rev. Mr. Simmonds will devote two days a week in study at the Boston university for a degree of doctor of philosophy.

New draft registrants who intend to enter the students' army training corps at Brown university, or other colleges where military training is to be given this fall, must apply immediately to their local boards and be examined physically. The war department must know approximately how many will be enrolled so that supplies and equipment may be provided. The procedure for entrance will be similar to induction for the draft.

Those who qualify physically and otherwise and are accepted for the college training corps will be inducted into service in accordance with the selective service regulations and will be ordered to report to the college which they elect to attend within a period of seven days thereafter.

Rhode Island's quota for the next draft of men before Oct. 15 calls 332 men to be sent to Camp Meade. This call includes a quota of 35 colored men which, according to Captain George H. Webb, director of the draft, cannot at present be filled, as there are but 10 colored men available for general service from Class 1 in the state. These men will be inducted and local boards will ask for volunteers or will reclassify others to obtain the necessary number.

Westerly Central Labor union has issued a circular against the renomination of Albert H. Langworthy for state senator. This circular was endorsed at the recent convention of the Rhode Island branch of the American Federation of Labor held in Westerly. In support of the circular, Roderick McGarry of the legislative committee of the federation told of Senator Langworthy's promise to vote against the pending prohibition bill, the day before the bill came up, and how he failed to keep the promise. However, B. Hodkins charged the senator with being one of those men who drank whiskey in the committee room and then voted to abolish it.

The circular says in substance: "Mr. Langworthy has failed on every occasion to vote for the workingman or measures beneficial to him. He has had this neglect brought to his attention, and he has refused to make more chance, just one more term. The one more chance, the one more term, has made no difference to him. He now asks only one more chance, one more term, and it should be denied to him for the following reasons:

"He voted against the property qualification amendment keeping the registry voter on half a citizen.

"He voted against abolishing dual office holding.

"He voted against a bill providing for full voting privileges for the soldiers and sailors.

"He favored a measure to hold our town meeting in the daytime, when the workingmen could not attend.

"When chairman of the highway committee he imported untrained labor to take the place of citizens.

"Measures of benefit to the workman and to humanity which he has neglected to bring before the town meeting to tell Mr. Voter, we appeal to you to come to the caucus and the polls on election day. Help drive out the corrupt from our statehouse by nominating and electing Maurice W. Flynn senator from Westerly."

Reports of progress were made by every local representative, and almost all of them received large vote increases. No serious report of women into the ranks was reported. The municipal officers reported women as always being connected with their union, but they work the same hours as men and receive the same wages. They have recently received large wage advances.

One painter reported that women paint but are not entering the trade. Granite workers were not expecting women to take up their trade, and the new workers appeared to be hoping for work for anybody. It was reported that an attempt was being made to introduce women as motion picture operators and one woman was said to be working in Warwick.

John F. Murphy of the Typographical union decried the use of inexperienced teachers in trade school teaching boys to operate linotype machines. He pointed out the support of these boys to do job printing for which they receive no pay.

Large sales of Liberty bonds and war savings stamps were reported from the labor ranks and renewed activity was reported in the trades.

The legislative committee reported on the work of the members at the last session of the legislature, showing that the interests of labor were being fought for by the committee.

William C. Mudge, a member of the Westerly Granite Cutters' union, was the unanimous choice of the convention for master of the army.

The executive board was instructed to appoint a committee to have an interview with each candidate for the Rhode Island legislature as to their stand or attitude on labor bills, including the non-indorsement of the prohibition amendment, and use all honorable means in their power to the end that all such candidates who have pledged their support of such measures shall be returned elected.

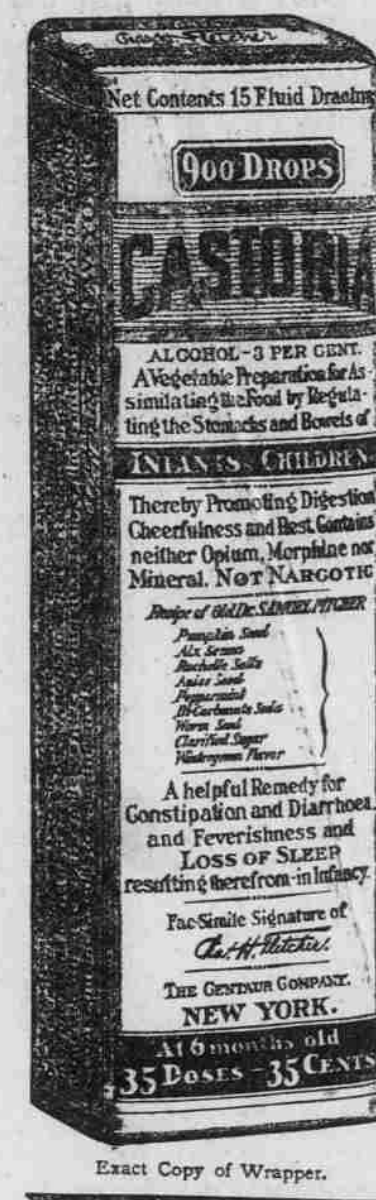

There are fairs, large fairs and small, but the fairest fair of all in this section is the North Stonington fair, which opened a session of three days on Tuesday. It is a fair of the original idea, purely agricultural and women's work, minus those new-fangled fair notions such as horse racing, variety shows, and circus side shows. The North Stonington fair is the real, genuine article, and is managed by men engaged in agricultural pursuits, their wives and sons and daughters. It is a real country fair, with its cattle and poultry shows, agricultural exhibitions, women's work and all the features that marked the old-fashioned fair. Working horses and draft oxen are featured, and some of the best sheep and swine are included in the attractions. Every kind of fruit and vegetable possible to raise in this section are shown in great quantities. There are no uniformed police men, but the best of order is assured by the presence of the country constables. This fair also serves as a meeting place for the renewal of old acquaintances and is a sort of home reunion.

Honest Advertising.

THIS is a topic we all hear now-a-days because so many people are inclined to exaggerate. Yet has any physician told you that we claimed unreasonable remedial properties for Fletcher's Castoria? Just ask them. We won't answer it ourselves, we know what the answer will be.

That it has all the virtues to-day that was claimed for it in its early days is to be found in its increased use, the recommendation by prominent physicians, and our assurance that its standard will be maintained.

Imitations are to be found in some stores and only because of the Castoria that Mr. Fletcher created. But it is not the genuine Castoria that Mr. Fletcher Honestly advertised, Honestly placed before the public and from which he Honestly expects to receive his reward.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Extracts from Letters by Grateful Parents to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Mrs. John W. Derrick, of Lexington, S. C., says: "My children cry for Castoria, I could not do without it."

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Gaines, of Ripley, Tenn., say: "We enclose our baby's picture hoping it will induce some poor tired mothers to give your Castoria a trial. We have used it since baby was two weeks old."

Mrs. J. G. Parman, of Nashville, Tenn., says: "The perfect health of my baby is due to your Castoria—the first and only medicine he has taken. He is never satisfied with one dose, he always cries for more."

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Johnson, of Stevens Point, Wis., say: "When our baby was two weeks old he cried so much we did everything for him, then got some Castoria and he is now strong and fat. We would not be without it, and are very thankful to you."

Judge Edward M. Burke held regular session of the probate court Tuesday afternoon. The first and final account of Thomas E. Brown, administrator of the estate of Dwight C. Brown, was allowed and recorded. In the same estate petition for distribution was granted. To Stephen Brown and Marie Brown was equally distributed the sum of $1,295.95, or $647.98 to each. In the estate of Mary J. Crandall, petitions for probating the will, two of which are in court, continuance was ordered to October 1.

On Wednesday and Thursday, among the special attractions, will be the auction of Edward E. Carpenter of 43 head of cattle on Wednesday and a herd of horses on Thursday. On both days there will be acts of strength between oxen and horse and milk test demonstrations by Assistant County Agent Whitman. A mechanical attraction is the demonstration of a complete light and power plant by Carl W. Brown of Norwich. There are 150 individual exhibitors.

The officers of the fair are George J. Coates, president; Elsworth C. Gray, vice president; E. Frank White, secretary, and George H. Stone, treasurer.

Tuesday was divorce day in the superior court for Washington county in session at West Kingston. Judge Elmer J. Rathbun, presiding, Caroline S. Duff, of Westerly, was granted a divorce from James Duff, a soldier now in France, was granted divorce on grounds of Georgia S. Reale on grounds of adultery. Madeline M. Sherman, of Wyoming, on grounds of neglect to provide was divorced from Claude G. Sherman. Irene J. Eddy, of Shannock, a cripple, from Frank Eddy, grounds non-support. Sophie M. Collard, of Shannock, from Joseph Collard, neglect to provide and awarded custody of minor child.

There is considerable interest in the petition in equity brought by Judge Nathan B. Lewis, executor of the estate of Charles Den Chapman, of Westerly, against Mary E. Arnold and others, which is a petition for the construction of the will of the late Mr. Chapman, which will made provisions which would have been made by law had there been no will. The case will be heard on points of law and certified to the superior court for an opinion. There are 32 respondents named, representing three branches of the family and residing in various sections of the country.

The questions involved are whether the widow, Mrs. Ella M. Chapman, is entitled to a part of the personal property, and whether the estate left by Charles Den Chapman goes jointly to the paternal and maternal kindred, or to the paternal side alive as ancestral estate. The real estate is valued at $15,000 and the personal $12,000. Fitzgerald and Higgins, of Pawtucket, represent the widow; Stone and Lovejoy, of Westerly, Mrs. Louis W. Arnold and eleven others who are heirs on the paternal side of Mr. Chapman; and Judge Herbert W. Rathbun represents Sheriff John R. Wilcox and forty others, heirs on the maternal side.

Mr. and Mrs. Chapman did not live together for many years and were never divorced. The settlement of the estate has been in the Westerly probate court for a long time. By
